OBJECTIVES AND SCOPE

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE JOURNAL

Supervisión21 is a free and open access journal, edited by Unión Sindical de Inspectores de Educación (USIE), responsible for its ownership and management, with no other financial support or links to other educational or business organisations.

The publication does not include any direct marketing activities, except those linked to actions of the publisher, USIE. Supervision21 and the texts it publishes are non-commercial.

Four issues per year are published quarterly, in the last week of January, April, July and October of each year.

The aim of the journal is to disseminate relevant aspects of the education field, devoting specific and prominent treatment to issues related to education inspection, as well as those directly linked to it: school organisation and participation, legislation, pedagogical leadership, evaluation in all areas, educational quality and improvement, and the rights and duties of the educational community.

The journal is aimed at the entire educational community, including education inspectors, management teams, teachers, lecturers, researchers and any member of it.

The journal Supervisión21 is regulated by an Editorial Board and a Scientific Board, whose members include education inspectors and relevant experts on educational issues from various fields and levels. The composition of both boards is public and can be consulted at http://usie.es/supervision21/.
